

Contents

Introduction: After the History of Sexuality? Periodicities, Subjectivities, Ethics
Scott Spector

PART I: WHEN WAS SEXUALITY? RETHINKING PERIODIZATION

Chapter 1. After the History of (Male) Homosexuality
Helmut Puff

Chapter 2. Sexual Identity and Other Aspects of ‘Modern’ Sexuality: New Chronologies, Same Old Problem?
Merry Wiesner-Hanks

Chapter 3. Interior States and Sexuality in Early Modern Germany
Ulinka Rublack

Chapter 4. Saying It With Flowers: Post-Foucauldian Literary History and the Poetics of Taboo in a Premodern German Love Song (Walther von der Vogelweide’s Under der linden)
Andreas Krass

Chapter 5. Early Nineteenth-Century Sexual Radicalism: Heinrich Hössli and the Liberals of His Day
Robert Deam Tobin

PART II: WHOSE SEXUALITY? SUBJECTIVITY, SURVEILLANCE, EMANCIPATION

Chapter 6. Anna Rüling, Michel Foucault, and the ‘Tactical Polyvalence’ of the Female Homosexual
Kirsten Leng

Chapter 7. To Police and Protect: The Surveillance of Homosexuality in Imperial Berlin
Robert Beachy

Chapter 8. Soliciting Fantasies: Knowing and Not-Knowing about Male Prostitution by Soldiers in Imperial Germany
Jeffrey Schneider

Chapter 9. Between Normalization and Resistance: Prostitutes’ Professional Identities and Political Organization in Weimar Germany
Julia Roos

Chapter 10. Writing Love, Feeling Shame: Rethinking Respectability in the Weimar Homosexual Women’s Movement
Marti Lybeck

Chapter 11. Transsexual: Herculine Barbin Meets 'Liebe Marta'
Philipp Sarasin

PART III: THE POLITICS OF SEXUAL ETHICS

Chapter 12. Beyond Freedom: A Return to Subjectivity in the History of Sexuality
Tracie Matysik

Chapter 13. Homosexuality in the Sexual Ethics of the 1930s: A Values Debate in the Culture Wars between Conservatism, Liberalism, and Moral-National Renewal
Andreas Pretzel

Chapter 14. Socialist Eugenics and Homosexuality in the GDR: The Case of Günter Dörner
Florian G. Mildenberger

Chapter 15. Sex, Sentiment, and Socialism: Relationship Counseling in the GDR in the Wake of the 1965 Family Law Code
Erik Huneke

Chapter 16. Longing, Lust, Violence, Liberation: Discourses on Sexuality on the Radical Left in West Germany, 1969-1972
Massimo Perinelli

Postscript: Tomorrow Sex Will Be Good Again
Dagmar Herzog